The U.S. Government yesterday launched a new website (http://r20.rs6.net/tn.jsp?f=001XwK4jW0XF0pVhLzbeliM4bidguVvJ8PZ9sA0Amu9aItH26zpaffPdHA_x50cMLsM37rR1c4vov3l9D_mStoiMvLKCRjOLgB2EVtGvTfueaS-tMLgHiET2OGRBvmZLdt-ky5Ac0CH_e4=&c=&ch=) focused on expanding the nation’s artificial intelligence capabilities: AI.GOV.

---“The environmental profession and industry, like the federal government, will soon realize the expanding powers of machine learning and how it’s likely to change the way in which we protect the environment. EnviroAI is pressing as hard as we can to educate industry and help environmental professionals get ahead of this game. It’s a gigantic opportunity. No one will want to fall economically behind as these powers continue to expand.”
