Employee's digital experience protecting the environment ...

---"Delight people at work. It is that simple. Companies must create strong digital experiences that delight their employees." - Pedro Bados, CEO, Nexthink

Employee's Digital Experience Protecting the Environment

Do you want to look at spreadsheets or this?

Whether you work for a company, an environmental agency, or a non-profit ... what does your screen look like? ... what's your digital experience everyday? ... what digital tools can you deploy to investigate, find information, and solve environmental problems?

----"Businesses that succeed environmentally will use the tools of social media and game design to improve employee's digital experience—and consequently employee's engagement and productivity." - Jed Anderson, EnviroAI

---"There is an expectation gap between what employees expect and what IT support teams can actually deliver. And this gap will only shrink when companies take deliberate efforts to improve their digital employee experience." - Jon Cairns

---"We're making protecting the environment fun and engaging. That's a significant part of our customer experience focus at EnviroAI." - Jed Anderson, EnviroAI
