POST

I think this would shock the public . . .

January 6, 2021

“When is the last time you saw your facility?????????”

“I know environmental managers who haven’t seen their facilities in months …

Companies and consultants with EnviroAI apps can purchase technology to better and more safely manage these sites remotely with significantly more data and access to actionable data. Environmental managers need more virtual tools (and less paperwork exercises) to protect their companies and the public in my opinion. The growing importance of virtual tools is not only because of Covid, but because technologically the world is changing in a direction where IoT, AI, robotics, and remote sensing will play a greater role in getting work done and verifying that work is getting done.” - Jed Anderson, CEO, EnviroAI
